

Fund Description

Our primary objective is to participate in Large-Cap Stock gains, but to avoid significant losses. Our research shows that virtually all stock market declines of significance are preceded by periods of negative, more moderate price decreases. Our fund attempts to exit Large-Cap Stocks during the preliminary phase of the decline, before large losses are realized. When stocks are rising, our fund is fully invested and attempts to track a combination of broad large cap indices<sup>1</sup>. During significant long-term declines, the Fund attempts to mimic the return of money market instruments and avoid the majority of losses.

*There can be no assurance that this objective will be met.

How this Fund Fits into a Portfolio

This Fund should be used to make up the U.S. Large Cap stock allocation of an investor's portfolio.

Target Allocation

Approach

Historically equity investments have offered investors the best opportunity to achieve long-term portfolio growth. However, equities carry significant risk and are vulnerable to debilitating portfolio losses when exogenous shocks to the market occur. During market crises, correlations between asset classes rise, and traditional portfolio diversification fails to provide adequate protection as all assets fall together. Toews' goal is to help protect core assets from extreme losses without sacrificing participation in rising markets investors rely on to achieve long-term, above-inflation growth.

Why Toews?

- Distinct tool to potentially lower risk of core asset class exposure when traditional methods may falter
- Loss avoidance strategy with the potential for up-market participation
- Diversifies portfolios by strategy type
- Manager has twenty-two years of experience trading market exiting strategies

The performance data quoted here represents past performance. Current performance may be lower or higher than the performance data quoted above. Investment return and principal value will fluctuate, so that shares, when redeemed, may be worth more or less than their original cost. Past performance is no guarantee of future results. The Fund's investment adviser has contractually agreed to reduce its fees and/or absorb expenses of the Fund, at least until August 31, 2017, to ensure that the net annual Fund operating expenses will not exceed 1.25%, subject to possible recoupment from the Fund in future years. Please review the Fund's prospectus for more detail on the expense waiver. Without these waivers, the Fund's total annual operating expenses would be 1.48%. Results shown reflect the waiver, without which the results could have been lower. A fund's performance, especially for very short periods of time, should not be the sole factor in making your investment decisions. For performance information current to the most recent month-end, please call toll-free 877-558-6397.

The statistics presented are defined as follows. Annualized Return is the geometric mean of the returns with respect to one year. Standard Deviation measures the average deviations of a return series from its mean, and is often used as a measure of risk. Loss Standard Deviation is calculated in the same manner as Standard Deviation, but only negative observations are used in the calculation. Beta is a measure of systematic risk, or the sensitivity of a manager to movements in the benchmark. A beta of 1 implies that you can expect the movement of a manager's return series to match that of the benchmark used to measure beta. Maximum Drawdown measures the largest percentage decline from a peak to a trough.

The S&P 500 index and is a widely recognized, unmanaged indexes of common stock prices. The Nasdaq-100 Index includes 100 of the largest domestic and international non-financial companies listed on the Nasdaq Stock Market based on market capitalization. All Benchmark composite data is supplied by third party vendors and assumes re-investment of all dividends.

**Total annual operating expense is 1.48%. After waivers the net annual operating expense is 1.25%.

The Fund may execute an investment strategy or hedge by entering into derivative contracts such as futures and swaps, which can be riskier than traditional investments. The Fund may invest in ETF's. As a result, your cost of investing in the Fund will be higher than the cost of investing directly in ETF shares and may be higher than other mutual funds that invest directly in stocks and bonds. You will indirectly bear fees and expenses charged by ETF's in addition to the Fund's direct fees and expenses. The Fund could be subject to greater risks because the Fund's performance may depend on issues other than the performance of a particular company or U.S. market sector. When the adviser believes market conditions are unfavorable, the adviser may attempt to "hedge" with defensive positions and strategies including holding substantial positions in foreign or domestic fixed-income securities and/or cash equivalents, which may limit potential gains when compared to unhedged funds.
